PERISHED IN BURNING HOTEL

Midland House at Roff Destroyed--
One Guest Incinerated

The Midland Hotel at Roff was destroyed by fire about 2:30 Monday morning. So rapidly did the flames spread that a number of guests narrowly escaped, clad in their night clothes, several of them slightly burned.

One guest, who had arrived from Missouri just three hours before on a late train, presumably sleeping very soundly, was burned up. From his valise and other belongings recovered it was discovered the unfortunate man was J. D. Cole, who was on the way to visit relatives at Trout's ranch near Roff. His relatives have been notified of the tragedy.

The building was the property of Mrs. Bettie Hawkins who conducted the hotel. The loss is said to be fully covered by $2,000 worth of insurance. It is not thought possible the fire could have been started from the range at that time of the night. Under the circumstances incendiarism is strongly suspected.

Roff's fire company did heroic work in rescuing furniture from the flaming building and in preventing the further spread of the fire.

WANT CENSUS OF OKLAHOMA

President's Demand Regarded as
Inimical to Statehood

Washington, June 25.—Upon the advice of attorney general, the president has instructed the Secretary of Commerce and labor to have the census bureau make a special enumeration of the inhabitants of the proposed state of Oklahoma, including both the present Territory of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, to determine the population of the proposed new state and its distribution among the several territorial subdivisions into which the state will be divided should the constitution confirmed by the convention lately sitting there be approved by the polls.

The latter clause is regarded as of especial significance, as it is simply another way of saying that the purpose of the census is to discover whether the population is fairly divided among the five congressional districts in which the proposed state is to be divided. Democrats and the few republicans who are friendly to statehood for these territories look upon the order for an enumeration as but a continuance of the fight against the admission of the new state.

EAGER FOR THE DECISION

Gathered at Guthrie to Learn Fate
of the Constitution

Guthrie, Okla., June 25.—Attorneys are gathering here to receive the decision of the Oklahoma Supreme Court on the cases affecting the submission of the constitution to the people, which is to be handed down this afternoon. The cases were submitted by argument June 12, the primary cause being that of Woods county, in which the inferior court held among other things that the constitutional convention had no power to divide counties as provided for election of county officers, and was taken on appeal by the convention's attorneys. Linked with the Woods county case were submitted those from Greer and Day counties, embracing practically every point complained of in the litigation concerning the scope of the convention's powers.

Attorneys for the Woods county plaintiffs who heretofore figured on an appeal in event the decision was adverse, may abandon that course and take their chances of opposing the county division through an appeal from the state courts. To appeal from the Territorial Supreme Court, a financial damage must be involved.

It is estimated that in event of the court's decree permitting an election to be held, the constitutional convention will be immediately reassembled and a new election date set, and as soon as the legal barriers allow, Gov. Frantz will issue the proclamation. He declared today that the people should have an opportunity to vote upon the constitution at the earliest possible time.

AFTER OKLAHOMA CENTRAL

Rumored that Gould Interests Will Invade New State.

Guthrie, Okla., June 25.—That the Gould interests are going to get busy in Oklahoma railroad circles is indicated by the semi-official announcement that they have secured control of the Oklahoma Central, an independent line now in operation from Lehigh to Purcell and under construction from Purcell to Chickasha. The road gives a western outlet from the coal fields of the Choctaw Nation and for practically its entire length traverses a country which has been entirely uncultivated by railroads. It crosses several north and south lines but is the only east and west road in the two territories, with the one exception of the Choctaw, now owned by the Rock Island.

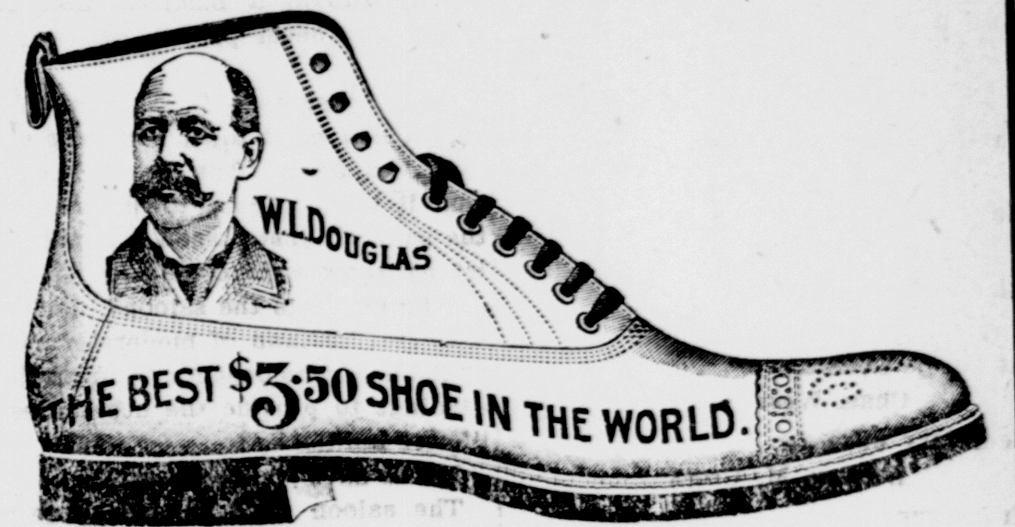

The Gould interests now have but one line in either territory, the Iron Mountain, running from Coffeyville, Kan., to Ft. Smith. Rumors have been afloat for several years that they intended invading the Oklahoma field, and it has been commonly talked that the proposed line from Caney, Kan., southwest through Pawhuska to Guthrie was a Missouri Pacific proposition, but that line, at least as far as any Missouri Pacific connections are concerned, now seems to have fallen through entirely.

AFTER INDIAN HEIRESESSES

Girls Want "Scientific Husbands" Many Suitors Come.

Sulphur, I. T., June 24.—Sulphur and the Platt National Park are taking on the airs of a military reservation. Agricultural and mechanical college cadets are arriving in great numbers dressed in gay college uniforms. These spry cadets have for several weeks been carrying on an impassioned correspondence with Misses Arrow Littleheart and Lizzie Littlefoot and a great many other Chickasaw belles who have banded together for the purpose of securing scientifically educated young white men for husbands. This band of pretty and practical Indian maids sent out about two months ago to the presidents of all the A. and M. Colleges of the United States letters describing their valuable allotments. They explained that their brothers were fine fellows but were not good for business. Said the Indian boys needed white girls trained to business for squaws. As for themselves, they needed and were determined to have only young white men for husbands who had been taught to farm practically and scientifically in the agricultural colleges. These proud aborigine maids are deeming that their white husbands have military bearing—that they must be finished product physically as mentally. All the presidents but one read the letters to their student body. At all the schools great enthusiasm was created. The president of the A. & M. college of the state of Michigan turned down the request of these proud Indian maids—refused to frame their letters and hang them in a prominent place in that state's agricultural college where his cadets could see them and read of unusual opportunities down in the Chickasaw Nation. Wrote the maids that he was afraid his cadets would correspond with them over fictitious names and only for amusement. The cadets arriving from other colleges seem to mean business. They are evidently very much in earnest.

John D. Doesn't Own it All.

Push-me-ta-ha, former chief of the Osages, is said to be the richest Indian in the world. His wealth is estimated at $2,000,000, and that of his entire family $10,000,000, the result of the discovery of oil and gas on their lands. The old chief's monthly income from oil and gas royalties alone is $30,000.

OKLAHOMA NOTES.
(From Kansas City Journal.)

Red Man's Comment.

A Choctaw Indian, commenting on the democratic campaign recently said, "White man when he run for office, farmer all the time, when he get elected heap much plutocrat, ride in big devil wagon, run over farmer's pigs."

Chance for Schoolmarm.

Last year the government established 200 new schools in the Chickasaw Nation. This year supervisor Umholtz will establish 100 more schools there. Since there are only 175 federal teachers in this nation there is a chance for 125 Kansas and Texas school marns at salaries ranging from $40 to $60 a month.

Haskell and Dunne.

The question is being asked in Oklahoma, what has Jesse Dunne done to anger C. N. Haskell. The answer is, Jesse Dunne wrote a letter stating that Haskell refused to contribute to the democratic campaign fund, whereas Haskell claims he did contribute a good round roll, but not at the time Jesse Dunne him for it.

Reducing the Temperature.

Leslie Niblack, in his Guthrie Leader, is running plate matter, including cuts of skating and ice boating on the Hudson river. Niblack's purpose is not clear. He is possibly trying to counteract the effects of the hot weather in Oklahoma, or possibly he would divert attention from the boiling condition of the democratic pot of harmony.

"Catches 'Em Alive."

The woman who bears the wild cat in his den lives near Geary, according to the Geary Bulletin: "An Oklahoma woman has no fear of wild cats. Mrs. Dollie Carter who lives in Devil's Canyon, a few miles west of here, is getting quite a reputation as an enemy to the wild cat tribe. Last Friday she found the lair of a bobcat with three kittens. She drove off the mother cat and captured the kittens. Last winter Mrs. Carter killed a monster bobcat in the same canyon, after a hard fight in which she received many scratches from the beast."

Hard to Interview.

The hardest assignment that can be given a newspaper man is to interview a bunch of full blood Indians. The Tonkawa Chieftian reporter tried to interview some Tonkawa Indians Wednesday, but was thwarted by their habitual taciturnity. He ascertained, however, that nothing more exciting than a dog fight had taken place in the reservation since the death of Irwin Topsy by drowning. "They are planning," he says, "for a midsummer trek that will include a visit with the Poncas, followed with its customary exchange of ponies. The social season has not been particularly brilliant the past winter; what functions had taken place were not eligible to an inquisitive newsmonger. They did not seem to take much interest in the approaching election, but, like our friend, Mr. McCarty, are in favor of the initiative and referendum and imperial mandate, because it sounds good."

Indian Rhymster.

Alex Posey, of Muskogee, the Creek bard, writing under his favorite non de plume, Fus Fixico, refutes the old saying that nothing will rhyme with Arkansas, in the following verse published in the Muskogee Times—No rhyme for Arkansas?
Or Wichita,
Or Washita,
Or Spavinaw,
Or Mackinaw,
Or, Ma

And Pa?
Bah!
Hath not a crow a caw,
And greedy sharks a maw?
Is not a female Chickasaw
T Squaw?
Don't jacks he haw
And wild cats claw?
Ever hear of Esaw?
Never saw a Choctaw
Smoke or chaw?
Ever see a Quapaw
Eating a ripe pawpaw?
No rhyme for Arkansas?
Pshaw!

ANOTHER FOR PROHIBITION.

The state-wide prohibition cause is fast gaining ground, and its support is rapidly solidifying for the coming campaign. The Oklahoma Democrat, published at Altus, comes out emphatically for prohibition in the following unanswerable words:

There is no doubt in our mind that the prohibition clause of the constitution of the new state of Oklahoma will be and should be adopted in the coming election.

Why should a business that consumes and never produces, be allowed to exist?

The theory that it takes a saloon to make a good town has long since been exploded. The theory now is that it takes a good town to support the saloon. Just reason a minute and let us know your conclusion.

Who supports the saloon? Is it the rich man or man of moderate means, or the man who depends upon his daily earnings to provide the necessities of life for his family?

Let us have your answer. The saloon pays a revenue to the city. Where does the revenue come from?

Would it not be better for all parties concerned to have this revenue come through the hands of the butcher, the baker, the grocer, the coal dealer, the drygoods man and other necessary channels of trade than through the hands of a business which deals death and destruction to its deluded victims?

Yes! The Democrat stands for prohibition. It dedicates its own policy, and stands ready to defend its position.

THE ERUPTION COMING.

Under the caption, "A word of warning to the Oklahoma Leaders," the Tulsa World, one of the leading Republican papers of the new state, prints the following:

"The long threatened revolt against the dictatorial and suicidal policy of state central committee of the Republican party of Oklahoma has come to pass. For months such action has been gaining in strength, and the inclination of the committee to take the power of government from the hands of the people has aided in popularity of the movement. The desire of the people for home government, everywhere apparent, should have acted as a warning to the politicians, and for self protection, if for no higher motive, they should have considered well the demands of the rank and file. No association of men is greater than its constituency, and the attempt made by selfish interests to curtail the rights of liberty loving Oklahomans by shoddy superficiality, could have but one end: failure. The people want self-government. The people who have caused all this unnecessary delay and embarrassment in accomplishing statehood can hold no resentment against the people, if they find themselves persona non grata in the party councils henceforth. The World has consistently favored and sought statehood, and has unceasingly argued that the only feasible path to immediate statehood was by the adoption of the constitution. It is gratifying to the World to note that the prominent leaders among the people of the republican party have awakened to this fact. The World has exhausted every effort to convince the state committee that the defeat of the constitution spelled political ruin to the party and commercial ruin to the Indian Territory, but against all reason, the state committee was lead by Oklahoma 'interests' to declare against the constitution. In the face of the fact that an apparent unanimity of the state committee desired at least delay, the World has remained quiet on the subject of statehood, never, however, losing its enthusiasm in that respect. The World has, perhaps, fidgetted and fumed to itself, when the Oklahoma leaders committed some particularly inconceivable blunder, but in the interests of harmony, it has bided its time.

"Now that definite action has been taken, by men representative of the people, the World feels no longer under obligations to the state committee, in the event its policy is not radically changed, and unless it shows at once, by clear and unmistakable effort, a sincere indication of quick work for statehood, the World will say God speed to the rump convention, and will devote its influence, heart and soul to the movement. And the World believes that that rump convention will be so representative of the business interests, the common toilers, and the vote-free, broadminded, uncontrolled masses of the republican party that a 'regular' convention, called at the instance of the 'leaders' in Oklahoma, will be a physical impossibility.

"It is up to the 'leaders.' The voice of the new state citizenship has been heard. The 'leaders' must obey or perish."

It is evident from the foregoing that not all the republicans in the new state can be depended on to aid the interests seeking to defeat the constitution and statehood. At least there is one republican paper which places the welfare of its state above party long enough to declare warfare upon the effort on the part of the republican leaders to keep Oklahoma hog-tied longer in order that the necessity of going to work may be obviated among the carpet-baggers.

And the end is not yet. The rank and file has never had a say. When they get one, if it ever pleases the courts, it need not be surprising if something pops in a thunderous and ominous way.—Oklahoman.

Potatoes Going High.

Shawnee, Okla., June 24.—Unusual activity marked the potato market today. The prices scoring as high as $1.05 per bushel, breaking all records in Oklahoma. Fifteen buyers are on the local market representing commission companies at all Northern cities. Excitement was caused today by the rumor that St. Louis had wired to purchase the entire crop at $1.05. Last year about 800 cars of spuds were shipped from this point, the price averaging 52c. It is estimated tonight that potatoes will be selling in carload lots at $1.25 before Wednesday night. A general crop shortage has caused the rapid raise.

IN THE LEVITY LINE.

There was a young man named Mr.—
Who met a young maid and kr.

He said "Be my wife."
She replied "not on your life";
I wouldn't be even a sr."

A Cleveland society woman gave a party of nine friends of her young son, aged six. To add to the pleasure of the occasion she had the ice frozen in the form of a hen and ten chickens. Each child was allowed to select his chicken as it was served. Finally she came to the son of a prominent politician.

"Which chicken will you have, Bertie?" she asked.
"If you please, Mrs. H., I think I'll take the mamma hen," was the polite reply.—Lippincott's.

An untoward incident, as such things go in world diplomacy, caused considerable amusement at the banquet given in New York last week to General Kurokin, Japan's great military hero. George Dewey, admiral of the American navy, was one of the most distinguished guests present. His seatmate was Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador to Washington. The ambassador became so enthusiastic while cheering the sentiments of one of the orators of the occasion that he had the misfortune to upset a glass of water full into the lap of the hero of Manila.

Sir, I beg your pardon," cried the diplomat, greatly perturbed.

"I beg of you," replied the admiral, "not to be distressed," the other gathering up the skirts of his coat and shaking out the water. "Naturally, I am more use to salt water," added Admiral Dewey, smiling merrily at his own little joke, the better to show his proper understanding of the way in which to preserve the niceties of the international comity, "but don't let this annoy you at all."

"I assure you that I am very sorry," indeed, insisted the mikado's representative.

"Then I assure you," declared Admiral Dewey, "that I feel sorrier for you than for myself."—Washington Herald.

Once, while Bishop Talbot, long known as the "cowboy bishop," was attending a meeting of dignitaries of the church of St. Paul, a tramp approached at group of bishops gathered on the hotel porch at noon and asked for aid. "No," one of the churchmen replied. "I don't think we can do anything, but down there is the youngest bishop of us all (pointing to Bishop Talbot) and he is a very generous man." The tramp went to Bishop Talbot and the others watched with interest. They saw a look of surprise come over the tramp's face—they saw that the bishop was talking eagerly, earnestly—they finally saw something pass from hand to hand. The tramp tried to get away without speaking to those of the group, but the former spokesman called to him: "Well did you get something from our young brother?" The tramp grinned sheepishly. "No; I gave him a dollar for his blamed new cathedral at Laramie."—The Bellman.

"Even with flattery," said Mark Twain at a dinner, "you can't please some men. I remember when I was a reporter in Virginia City there was a doctor I liked—I had camped once on Lake Tahoe with him—and in an obituary I decided to give him a card. I wrote: 'Dr. Sawyer was called in, and under his prompt and skillful treatment the patient died Monday.' But Dr. Sawyer, somehow wasn't pleased."—Kansas City Star.

The man who applied at headquarters for a little help from the charitable association set forth his case with so much tact and moderation that the secretary was beginning to be impressed. "I can't ask them to do too much," the applicant said modestly. "You see," he continued, in an outburst of delicacy and ingenuousness, "They paid for my wedding last month, and 'twas a real swell one."—Argonaut.

Little Daughter Dead.

The five year old daughter of A. J. Martin, residing on E. 9th street, died Monday morning and the remains were taken to Stonewall today for burial.

Have Bored 40 Feet.

During Tuesday forenoon the drilling of the gas well reached the depth of 40 feet, this representing 24 hours work. However, the progress was impeded by striking stone near the surface. It was necessary to blast through the stone.

Most Welcome Visitors.

Mrs. Hiram Glass of Texarkana and Mrs. William Miller of Tishomingo departed this morning after a brief visit with the family of A. M. Gregg.

These ladies and Mrs. T. L. Prather, who is the mother of Mr. Gregg, were most welcome callers at The News office. Like The News editors they were reared in old Mt. Vernon, Texas, and it was like greeting kinspeople.

Street Fair Tonight.

Everything is in readiness and Andrew's Amusement Company will open the big street fair tonight at 8 o'clock.

The attractions occupy Broadway from Main street a block and a half north. There are six main attractions and the usual number smaller ones and vendor's booths. Ada people will probably be out en masse tonight to see the sights and experience the delights.

NOTICE TO DAILY SUBSCRIBERS.

Subscribers to the Evening News will take notice of the following change: Instead of delivering and collecting for The News, the carrier boys now buy their papers outright and carry delinquent subscribers at their own risk. Each boy sells his papers at ten cents a week and collects for himself. Those subscribers who prefer to pay at the office of course may continue to do so. However, The News management still maintains a supervision over the carriers and will exact from them courteous treatment and prompt service for patrons. The latter are requested to report to the manager any negligence on the part of the boys. It is desired that every family in Ada read The News and that it be delivered with the utmost promptness and regularity.

Everybody is requested to bring their Oliver song books to the Methodist church tonight.

Word came from Oklahoma City this morning that Gilbert Reed was some better.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

(Atchinson (Kan.) Globe)
A boy never expects a girl's dog to have much sense.

Nine men out of ten see into lose their grip for awhile as soon as they marry.

A kiss on the cheek is like many "just as good." It isn't.

If the present rate keeps up, all the men will be lawyers, and all the women stenographers.

When there is company in the house, members of the family begin to say "good morning" to each other when they come to breakfast.

The town man is always figuring on returning to the farm, while the farmer expects to spend his reclining years in town.

A woman may loaf around town a good deal, but she differs from a man loafer by disguising it under the head of "shopping."

You are never apt to have to pass an examination in which an intimate knowledge of the various brands of whiskey will help you.

Ram's Horn Brown's Philosophy.
The good we ought to do will never be done unless we do it.

The devil may sometimes get a new hook and line, but he keeps on fishing with the same old bait.

The man who prays to be nothing, generally is.

The Lord can work with dull tools, but he doesn't like to do it any better than we do.

Until fire touches gunpowder, it is as well behaved as sweet milk.

It is hard to find a man who will stand up like a man and take the blame for his own wrong doing.

He also advises the guests "not to give dogs your bones to crack under the table, or feed the cat or encourage animals to jump on the table. This may offend your host or lead to the soiling of his carpet." An admonition that well might well be observed in the present day. ### Don't Be Suspicious.

"A trust conference—any kind of a conference for that matter—is a good thing," said Governor Sheldon of Nebraska, "if it is conducted fairly. To be unfair, to be prejudiced, to be suspicious man falls into error and makes a fool himself. There was a very suspicious countryman who went to New York to see the sights. Coming to the Metropolitan Museum, he was amazed to find the admission to this splendid building cost nothing. He mounted the steps and entered. 'Your umbrella, sir,' said a uniformed official, extending his hand. The countryman jerked back his umbrella, laughed scornfully, and turned on his heel. 'I knowed there was some cheat about it when you got in free,' he said."

A deaf old man dined with a family where grace was always said. Says Lippincott's. When the guests were seated the host bowed his head and began to repeat the accustomed verse in a subdued, reverent tone. "Eh? What's that?" demanded the deaf old gentleman who sat beside him. The host smiled patiently and began again in a louder, more deprecatory voice. "Speak a little louder. I don't catch what you say," the old gentleman persisted. A low ripple of laughter went round the table. The host, his face crimson with embarrassment, raised his voice and repeated the verse. The deaf old gentleman did his best to hear, but failed. He placed one hand upon his host's arm. "What did you say?" he demanded irascibly. The host cast him an angry glance. "Damn it, I'm saying grace," he snapped.

IN THE NATURE OF PICKUP

Woman Wanted the Express Charges Saved to Store.

A young woman entered a store in Washington and bought a smoking jacket. "Of course you will pay the express charges on this for me?" she said, with a winning smile.

"Certainly, madam," replied the clerk. "We will pay express anywhere within 100 miles."

"What will the express charge be to Blankville, W. Va.?" she asked.

"Never mind how much it will be," said the clerk. "Whatever it may be, the amount will be paid."

"But I want to know the cost," she persisted.

"I would have to 'phone the express company to get it. Why are you so anxious?"

"Because I am going to Blankville, and I will carry the package out there myself and deliver it. I want you to deduct from the price of it the amount you would have to pay the express company." And then with the sweetest of smiles she added, "Remember the saying of the good old woman, 'Let nothing go to waste.'"

HIS LAST GALLANT ACT.

Why Salters Would in the Future Stick to His Seat.

"That's the last time—the very last time," wailed Salters, as he slammed his hat on the deck and gave other indications of mental anguish.

"Last time for what? Got another tip on a good thing?" queried the bookkeeper, with languid interest.

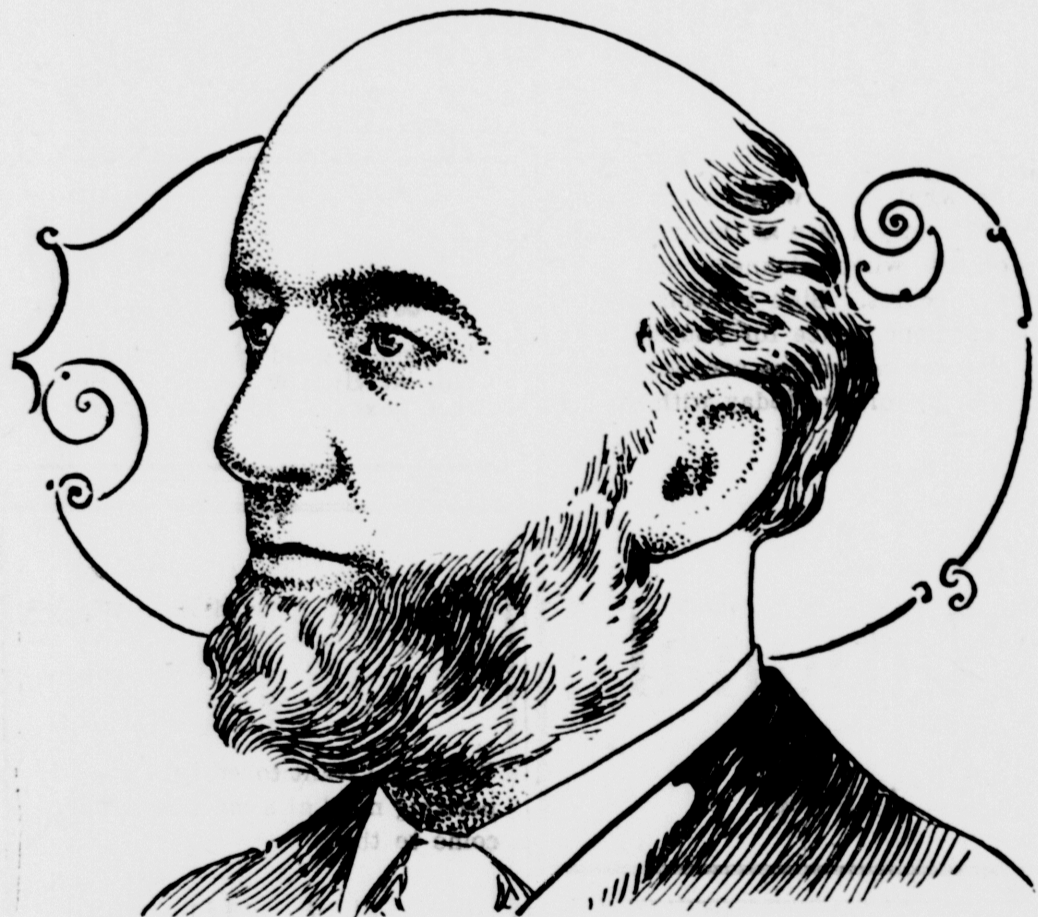

"No, sir. It's the last time I'll ever give up my seat on a car to a woman," replied Salters, with increasing warmth.

"I was lucky enough to get a seat in the subway express this morning," he continued, "and was comfortably reading my paper, when a young woman got on at One Hundred and Sixteenth street. I was sitting in a cross seat when I caught sight of her. She looked tired and delicate, and seeing nobody else make a motion to get up, I arose, made my best bow and waved my hand toward the vacant place. She bowed stiffly and said: 'No, thank you. I never could ride backward.' Before I could sit down again a big husky fellow, who had heard her, dropped into the place with a grunt of satisfaction. I had to stand all the way down town. Never again, I tell you."—N. Y. Press.

URGES MORE LIBERAL CHURCH LAWS

Bishop Berry.

Methodists are divided in their views on the opinion of Bishop Berry regarding dancing. In a sermon at Philadelphia the bishop declared that the members of the church must become more liberal in their attitude toward card playing as well as dancing. Bishop Berry's headquarters are in Buffalo. He is president of the Epworth league, and is highly esteemed in Methodist and other circles.

Origin of Slang Phrase.

James Baker of the Royal Geographical society gives this little story of a Greek saint: "Our good St. Blazes that gave us the phrase 'drunk as Blazes,' for this saint was pleasantly done to death by having his flesh torn off by wool combs, and so he became the patron of the English wool combers; and as a high feast was kept up on his day, and the people who frequented the feast were called Blazes, so the saying grew into the English tongue and remains there fixed and useful."

A posthumous son of Alfonso XII, who died in November, 1885, was born in May of the following year and was immediately proclaimed king under the regency of his mother, who was an imperial princess of the house of Austria. He was the third child of his parents, the two infants, Mercedes and Marie-Therese, having been born in 1880 and 1882, respectively. The full title of Alfonso XIII. is Leon-Ferdinand-Marie-Jacques-Isidore-Pascal-Antoine, king of Spain, of Castile, of Leon d'Aragon, of the two Sicilies, of Jerusalem, Minorca and Majorca, of Seville, Valencia, Galicia, of Cordova, Gibraltar, of the Canary Islands, and of the East and West Indies, besides which he bears numerous ducal and archducal titles.—Harper's Bazar.

A Revision.

"After all," said the dyspeptic philosopher, "what a man is depends largely on what a man eats and how he digests it. The cook is the most responsible factor in our civilization." "Quite true," answered Miss Cayenne. "The old song should be changed from 'Hail to the Chief,' to 'Hail to the Chef.'"

JILTED BOYS JOIN ARMY.

Cupid Said to Make Effective Recruiting Officer.

amination, and all from boys under "The love affairs of the very young men of Kansas City must be in a deuce of a state," said Lieut. Roger O. Mason, recruiting officer. "To-day we have had 12 applications for enlistment, eight passing the physical examination who could not get the consent of their parents to join the army. That indicates that 12 young men who had tiffs with their sweethearts now are looking for lives of adventure and danger to make them forget their troubles, and incidentally to make the young women feel sorry when they see the brave heroes they have scorned marching jauntily, clad in blue uniforms and brass buttons, while all the girls look on lost in admiration.

"Experience has shown that the main reason young men of good families find for wishing to enlist in the army is because of affairs of the heart which have turned out badly. Occasionally a wish for what he believes will be a career full of excitement or a boy's natural wish to be a soldier makes the young men who are under age enlist, but usually it is the heartache."—Kansas City Journal.

The Great Heron Must Go.

The great heron is not the only one of that family to subsist on a fish diet, but out of over a dozen species it is the largest and most gluttonous of its kind, and without a single redeeming quality, except, perhaps, the laughable and grotesque manner it swallows a fish. ## DODGED A PEACE OFFERING.

Pugnacious Man Refused to Accept the Loving Cup.

"We are in a peculiar predicament," said the man about town. "By 'we' I mean the members of a club that meets once a month for dinner, just to promote good fellowship. Our president, who founded the club, is sort of a crank. He's a good fellow, in a way, but wants to run things to suit himself and sometimes we have trouble with him. Not long ago we had a row that nearly disrupted the club. We all thought he was to blame and told him so; but after a while the outburst died down and then we thought we'd like to show him there was no permanent hard feeling, so we decided to give him a loving cup, as he is a valuable man to all of us.

"By an accident he heard of the secret and at once wrote us that no man or men on earth could give him a loving cup—that he wouldn't accept one, least of all from us, after the scrap we just had. We all went to him or wrote to him urging him to let the presentation take place, but he steadily refused. Then we told him he'd have to accept it; that it was all ready and it would break up the club if he didn't take it. He said he was willing to resign, but have a loving cup he would not; that if we attempted to present it to him he not only would leave the club, but cut every one of us off his list of acquaintances. He won out. We can't afford to lose him, so we are trying to cancel the order for the cup."

FINE STATUE OF GEN. J. E. B. STUART

On May 30 an equestrian statue of the Confederate cavalry leader General J. E. B. Stuart was unveiled at Richmond, Va., with appropriate ceremonies. General Stuart was the commander of the cavalry corps of the Confederate army of northern Virginia when he was mortally wounded at Yellow Tavern on May 11, 1864, at the age of 31.

Stuart was one of the Confederate officers who had their training at West Point. He served in the United States army in the west for several years before the Civil war broke out, and when his native state, Virginia, cast its lot with the southern cause he resigned and entered the Confederate army.

Where Camel Got Hump.

Did the camel develop his hump because of countless generations of burden-carrying in the deserts? Some scientists say so. The thoroughbred mehari, or saddle camel, of central Algeria, which carries no burden heavier than a slim Arab dispatch bearer, is losing its hump. Prof. Lombroso, the Italian anthropologist, has identified similar callouses—miniature humps—upon the neck and shoulders of Hottentot and Malagasy porters employed in work more appropriate to the camel.

Such pleasures seem just a trifle odd when you remember the priceless volumes on the Chatsworth shelves.—London Chronicle.

PUSHBALL NEW ATHLETIC PASTIME

The ingenuity of the deviser of athletic sports has produced a new game in which the pushball, which was invented some ten years ago, and introduced as an amusing pastime, is put to a novel use. The game is equine pushball, for want of a better name, and is being played extensively in the west, especially upon the Pacific coast. It is played with the regulation pushball, the huge, inflated sphere some eight or nine feet in diameter, but the maneuvering of the ball is confined strictly to the horses which the participants in the game ride.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

A PICTURESQUE MAN

John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who has been indicted on seven counts for forgery in the third degree and three for perjury, is the most picturesque figure in the insurance game. He is long-haired, gray and swarthy. The indictments grew out of certain "year-end" transactions in which the annual statements to the state insurance department are said to have been "doctored."

Hegeman is a striking personality, both physically and intellectually. In facial contour he bears a strong resemblance, some think, to the late Edwin Booth. His hair is worn in long ringlets which flow over his shoulders and this part of his adornment is his particular pride. The curling locks now streaked with gray are cared for as carefully as the hair of any woman, and when he sits in the sunlight his head appears to be covered with a mass of floss silk. His face is smooth shaven and the cameo-like features are accentuated by a pair of clear, gray eyes that light up wonderfully when his favorite topic—life insurance—is under discussion.

Mr. Hegeman has a remarkable memory for every detail connected with insurance statistics and without reference to books or memoranda can talk for hours on the subject, going into facts and figures with a ready accuracy and sustaining any contention he may make as to statistics with marvelous force. As a controversialist on the principals of the business in which he is engaged he has few peers.

He usually wears an old-fashioned stock and a standing collar, a long frock coat of dark material and light-colored trousers. In general appearance he has been described by one of his biographers as "a composite picture of Benjamin Franklin and Booth the actor."

His entire life since boyhood has been devoted to figures and to statistical work. He was born in New York in April, 1844, and when he was 22 years old he became the accountant of the Manhattan Life Insurance company where he first displayed those faculties which subsequently elevated him to a position at a salary of $100,000 a year. He left the Manhattan company to become the secretary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and in that capacity his zeal and his unflagging energy increased the business of the company to such an extent that the directors voted to make him the vice president. He continued as vice president of the company until October, 1891, when he was elected president.

PLANS HAVEN FOR HOBOES

Dr. Ben L. Reitman, organizer of the Brotherhood Welfare association, an institution designed to uplift the "Weary Willie" band more commonly known as tramps, who recently gave an elaborate banquet at a prominent Chicago hotel to a typical gathering of "knights of the road," has aroused reformers and others by his unique plan and many are already becoming interested in his scheme.

Dr. Reitman was born in St. Paul January 1, 1879, and when 12 years old he ran away from home and took up the "Weary Willie" profession. For five years he remained at home and went to school or worked for a period of seven months out of the year and the balance of the time he put in tramping about the nation. At the age of 17 he became fireman on a tramp steamer out of Tampa, Fla., to Europe and sailed around the world several times as first, second and third class and steerage passenger, as sailor, fireman, cook, steward, ship doctor and stowaway. He also has traveled throughout different countries in the guise of tourist, companion, beggar, tramp and investigator. After obtaining knowledge of the world and the various modes of living by its inhabitants Dr. Reitman decided to take up the cause of the tramp and is now devoting his time to the uplifting of this well-known element.

HEAD OF NATIONAL W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union and vice president of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, has, by means of her talents, applied to a lifelong and unflagging fight against the curse of intoxicating drink, achieved not only national but international fame. Than Mrs. Stevens few of our Americans are more in the public eye to-day.

But her home life and surroundings at Portland, Me., few, save her most intimate friends, know of. The Stevens homestead is in Strouds-water, a historic suburb of the charming City by the Sea which the poet Longfellow sang of. The house is of the old Colonial style, severe in its design, but conveying an unmistakable air of gentility and comfort. It is over a century old and was built for Mrs. Stevens' husband's father, who brought his bride there.

It has always been the noted occupant's aim to preserve the old-fashioned air which characterizes the residence. Nothing modern finds a place within its four walls. While electricity is available for lighting purposes kerosene lamps are the sole illuminant.

The rooms are all large and square. Some years ago Mrs. Stevens converted what was originally the kitchen into her study. Chosen for its southern exposure and for the inspiring view obtainable from its windows it is an ideal working den. Two and sometimes three stenographers are employed receiving dictation, writing out reports, addresses, etc., for the daily mail which must be attended to is a matter of no inconsiderable magnitude.

While explaining some of the interesting features of her study Mrs. Stevens placed for me a chair which she stated was over 100 years old. In front of me was an immense fireplace which takes a four-foot log, the length of the cut in the woods. Flanking the fireplace is one of those old-fashioned brick ovens of our grandmother's days where many a steaming hot meal has been prepared for the earlier occupants of the house.

LEADS WAR ON WHITE PLAGUE

Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago, president of the Illinois state board of charities and a noted physician, has been elected president of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. This organization of doctors, which has already done important work toward the stamping out of the white plague, has just held a largely attended convention in Washington.

After the death of the late Marshall Field Dr. Billings sent in the following bill:

"To services rendered from January 10 to January 17, day and night attendance, time of journey to and from New York—$25,000."

This fee, one of the largest ever paid an American doctor, was allowed without question. Dr. Billings is noted as a diagnostician. He is a member of most of the technical societies of the medical profession and is consulting physician in many of the Chicago hospitals. In 1902-3 Dr. Billings was president of the American Medical association, and he also has been president of the Chicago Medical society. He is 53 years old and was graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1881.

Dr. Billings attracted much attention last fall by advocating state regulation of marriage. In a widely-quoted speech he said:

"I do not believe there should be such freedom of marriage. I am no lawyer, but I would like to see society put on its statute books a law forbidding two people to be married, not merely until they had secured a certificate of health from a physician, but until they had obtained a certificate of inheritance showing their antecedents."

"This sounds drastic, but the increase in the defective classes is so impressive as to warrant such a conclusion. Two per cent. of the population of Illinois is insane. The number of defectives is increasing three per cent. annually."

PERISHED IN BURNING HOTEL

Midland House at Roff Destroyed--
One Guest Incinerated

The Midland Hotel at Roff was destroyed by fire about 2:30 Monday morning. So rapidly did the flames spread that a number of guests narrowly escaped, clad in their night clothes, several of them slightly burned.

One guest, who had arrived from Missouri just three hours before on a late train, presumably sleeping very soundly, was burned up. From his valise and other belongings recovered it was discovered the unfortunate man was J. D. Cole, who was on the way to visit relatives at Trout's ranch near Roff. His relatives have been notified of the tragedy. The building was the property of Mrs. Bettie Hawkins who conducted the hotel. The loss is said to be fully covered by $2,000 worth of insurance. It is not thought possible the fire could have been started from the range at that time of the night. Under the circumstances incendiarism is strongly suspected.

Roff's fire company did heroic work in rescuing furniture from the flaming building and in preventing the further spread of the fire.

WANT CENSUS OF OKLAHOMA

President's Demand Regarded as
Inimical to Statehood

Washington, June 25.—Upon the advice of attorney general, the president has instructed the Secretary of Commerce and labor to have the census bureau make a special enumeration of the inhabitants of the proposed state of Oklahoma, including both the present Territory of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, to determine the population of the proposed new state and its distribution among the several territorial subdivisions into which the state will be divided should the constitution confirmed by the convention lately sitting there be approved by the polls.

The latter clause is regarded as of especial significance, as it is simply another way of saying that the purpose of the census is to discover whether the population is fairly divided among the five congressional districts in which the proposed state is to be divided. Democrats and the few republicans who are friendly to statehood for these territories look upon the order for an enumeration as but a continuance of the fight against the admission of the new state.

EAGER FOR THE DECISION

Gathered at Guthrie to Learn Fate
of the Constitution

Guthrie, Okla., June 25.—Attorneys are gathering here to receive the decision of the Oklahoma Supreme Court on the cases affecting the submission of the constitution to the people, which is to be handed down this afternoon. The cases were submitted by argument June 12, the primary cause being that of Woods county, in which the inferior court held among other things that the constitutional convention had no power to divide counties as provided for election of county officers, and was taken on appeal by the convention's attorneys. Linked with the Woods county case were submitted those from Greer and Day counties, embracing practically every point complained of in the litigation concerning the scope of the convention's powers.

Attorneys for the Woods county plaintiffs who heretofore figured on an appeal in event the decision was adverse, may abandon that course and take their chances of opposing the county division through an appeal from the state courts. To appeal from the Territorial Supreme Court, a financial damage must be involved.

It is estimated that in event of the court's decree permitting an election to be held, the constitutional convention will be immediately reassembled and a new election date set, and as soon as the legal barriers allow, Gov. Frantz will issue the proclamation he declared today that the people should have an opportunity to vote upon the constitution at the earliest possible time.

AFTER OKLAHOMA CENTRAL

Removed that Gould Interests Will Invade New State.

Guthrie, Okla., June 25.—That the Gould interests are going to get busy in Oklahoma railroad circles is indicated by the semi-official announcement that they have secured control of the Oklahoma Central, an independent line now in operation from Lehigh to Purcell and under construction from Purcell to Chickasha. The road gives a western outlet from the coal fields of the Choctaw Nation and for practically its entire length traverses a country which has been entirely unoccupied by railroads. It crosses several north and south lines but is the only east and west road in the two territories, with the one exception of the Choctaw, now owned by the Rock Island.

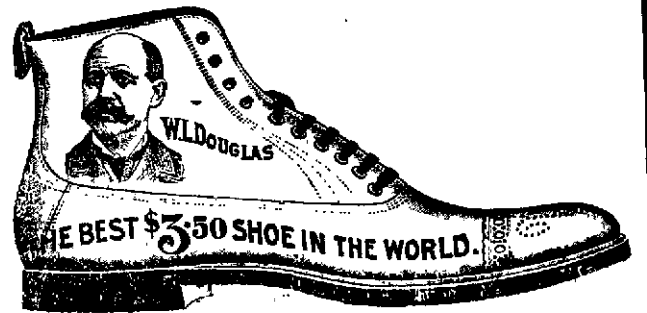

The Gould interests now have but one line in either territory, the Iron Mountain, running from Coffeyville, Kan., to Ft. Smith. Rumors have been afloat for several years that they intended invading the Oklahoma field, and it has been commonly talked that the proposed line from Caney, Kan., southwest through Pawhuska to Guthrie was a Missouri Pacific proposition, but that line, at least as far as any Missouri Pacific connections are concerned, now seems to have fallen through entirely.

Sulphur, I. T., June 24.—Sulphur and the Platt National Park are taking on the airs of a military reservation. Agricultural and mechanical college cadets are arriving in great numbers dressed in gay college uniforms. These spry cadets have for several weeks been carrying on an impassioned correspondence with Misses Arrow Littleheart and Lizzie Littlefoot and a great many other Chickasaw belles who have banded together for the purpose of securing scientifically educated young white men for husis not clear. He is possibly trying to counteract the effects of the hot weather in Oklahoma, or possibly he would divert attention from the boiling condition of the democratic pot of harmony.

"Catches 'Em All."

The woman who beards the wild cat in his den lives near Geary, according to the Geary Bulletin: "An Oklahoma woman has no fear of wild cats. Mrs. Dollie Carter who lives in Devil's Canyon, a few miles west of here, is getting quite a reputation as an enemy to the wild cat tribe. Last Friday she found the lair of a bobcat with three kittens. She drove off the mother cat and captured the kittens. Last winter Mrs. Carter killed a monster bobcat in the same canyon, after a hard fight in which she received many scratches from the beast."

Hard to Interview.

The hardest assignment that can be given a newspaper man is to interview a bunch of full blood Indians. The Tonkawa Chieftain reporter tried to interview some Tonkawa Indians Wednesday, but was thwarted by their habitual taciturnity. He ascertained, however, that nothing more exciting than a dog fight had taken place in the reservation since the death of Irwin Topsy by drowning. "They are planning," he says, "for a midsummer trek that will include a visit with the Poncas, followed with its customary exchange of ponies. The social season has not been particularly brilliant the past winter; what functions had taken place were not eligible to an inquisitive news monger. They did not seem to take much interest in the approaching election, but, like our friend, Mr. McCarty, are in favor of the initiative and referendum and imperial mandate, because it sounds good."

Indian Rhymster.

Alex Posey, of Muskogee, the Creek bard, writing under his favorite non de plume, Pus Fixico, refutes the old saying that nothing will rhyme with Arkansas. In the following verse published in the Muskogee Times--
No rhyme for Arkansas?
Or Wichita,
Or Washita,
Or Spavinaw,
Or Mackinaw,

bands. This band of pretty and practical Indian maids sent out about two months ago to the presidents of all the A. and M. Colleges of the United States letters describing their valuable allotments. They explained that their brothers were fine fellows but were not good for business. Said the Indian boys needed white girls trained to business for squaws. As for themselves, they needed and were determined to have only young white men for husbands who had been taught to farm practically and scientifically in the agricultural colleges. These proud aborigine maids are deeming that their white husbands have military bearing—that they must be finished product physically as mentally. All the presidents but one read the letters to their student body. At all the schools great enthusiasm was created. The president of the A. & M. college of the state of Michigan turned down the request of these proud Indian maids—refused to frame their letters and hang them in a prominent place in that state's agricultural college where his cadets could see them and read of unusual opportunities down in the Chickasaw Nation. Wrote the maids that he was afraid his cadets would correspond with them over fictitious names and only for amusement. The cadets arriving from other colleges seem to mean business. They are evidently very much in earnest.

John D. Doesn't Own It All.
Push-me-ta-ha, former chief of the Osages, is said to be the richest Indian in the world. His wealth is estimated at $2,000,000, and that of his entire family $10,000,000, the result of the discovery of oil and gas on their lands. The old chief's monthly income from oil and gas royalties alone is $30,000.

OKLAHOMA NOTES.
(From Kansas City Journal.)

Red Man's Comment.

A Choctaw Indian, commenting on the democratic campaign recently said, "White man when he run for office, farmer all the time, when he get elected heap much phitocrat, ride in big devil wagon, run over farmer's pigs."

Chance for Schoolmarm.

Last year the government established 200 new schools in the Chickasaw Nation. This year supervisor Umholtz will establish 100 more schools there. Since there are only 175 federal teachers in this nation there is a chance for 125 Kansas and Texas school marmes at salaries ranging from $40 to $60 a month.

Haskell and Dunne.

The question is being asked in Oklahoma, what has Jesse Dunne done to anger C. N. Haskell. The answer is, Jesse Dunne wrote a letter stating that Haskell refused to contribute to the democratic campaign fund, whereas Haskell claims he did contribute a good round roll, but not at the time Jesse Dunne him for it.

ANOTHER FOR PROHIBITION.
The state-wide prohibition cause is fast gaining ground, and its support is rapidly solidifying for the coming campaign. The Oklahoma Democrat, published at Altus, comes out emphatically for prohibition in the following unanswerable words:
There is no doubt in our mind that the prohibition clause of the constitution of the new state of Oklahoma will be and should be adopted in the coming election.
Why should a business that consumes and never produces, be allowed to exist?
The theory that it takes a saloon to make a good town has long since been exploded. The theory now is that it takes a good town to support the saloon. Just reason a minute and let us know your conclusion.
Who supports the saloon? Is it the rich man or man of moderate means, or the man who depends upon his daily earnings to provide the necessities of life for his family?
Let us have your answer.
The saloon pays a revenue to the city. Where does the revenue come from?
Would it not be better for all parties concerned to have this revenue come through the hands of the butcher, the baker, the grocer, the coal dealer, the drygoods man and other necessary channels of trade than through the hands of a business which deals death and destruction to its deluded victims?
Yes! The Democrat stands for prohibition. It dedicates its own policy, and stands ready to defend its position.
THE ERUPTION COMING.
Under the caption, "A word of warning to the Oklahoma Leaders," the Tulsa World, one of the leading Republican papers of the new state, prints the following:
"The long threatened revolt against the dictatorial and suicidal policy of state central committee of the Republican party of Oklahoma has come to pass. For months such action has been gaining in strength, and the inclination of the committee to take the power of government from the hands of the people has aided in popularity of the movement. The desire of the people for home government, everywhere apparent, should have acted as a warning to the politicians, and for self protection, if for no higher motive, they should have considered well the demands of the rank and file. No association of men is greater than its constituency, and the attempt made by selfish interests to curtail the rights of liberty loving Oklahomans by shoddy superficiality, could have but one end: failure. The people want self-government. The people who have caused all this unnecessary delay and embarrassment in accomplishing statehood can hold no resentment against the people, if they find themselves persona non grata in the party councils henceforth. The World has consistently favored and sought statehood, and has unceasingly argued that the only feasible path to immediate statehood was by the adoption of the constitution. It is gratifying to the World to note that the prominent leaders among the people of the republican party have awakened to this fact. The World has exhausted every effort to convince the state committee that the defeat of the constitution spelled political ruin to the party and commercial ruin to the Indian Territory, but against all reason, the state committee was led by Oklahoma 'interests' to declare against the constitution. In the face of the fact that an apparent unanimity of the state committee desired at least delay, the World has remained quiet on the subject of statehood, never, however, losing its enthusiasm in that respect. The World has, perhaps, fidgetted and fumed to itself, when the Oklahoma leaders committed some particularly inconceivable blunder, but in the interests of harmony, it has bided its time.
'Now that definite action has been taken, by men representative of the people, the World feels no longer under obligations to the state committee, in the event its policy is not radically changed, and unless it shows at once, by clear and unmistakable effort, a sincere indication of quick work for statehood, the World will say God speed to the rump convention, and will devote its influence, heart and soul to the movement. And the World believes that that rump convention will be so representative of the business interests, the common toilers, and the vote-free, broadminded, uncontrolled masses of the republican party that a 'regular' convention, called at the instance of the 'leaders' in Oklahoma, will be a physical impossibility.
'It is up to the 'leaders.' The voice of the new state citizenship has been heard. The 'leaders' must obey or perish.'
It is evident from the foregoing that not all the republicans in the new state can be depended on to aid the interests seeking to defeat the constitution and statehood. At least there is one republican paper which places the welfare of its state above party long enough to declare warfare upon the effort on the part of the republican leaders to keep Oklahoma hog-tied longer in order that the necessity of going to work may be obviated among the carpet-baggers.

And the end is not yet. The rank and file has never had a say. When they get one, if it ever pleases the courts, it need not be surprising if something pops in a thunderous and ominous way.—Oklahoman.
Potatoes Going High.
Shawnee, Okla., June 24.—Unusual activity marked the potato market today. The prices soaring as high as $1.65 per bushel, breaking all records in Oklahoma. Fifteen buyers are on the local market representing commission companies at all Northern cities. Excitement was caused today by the rumor that St. Louis had wired to purchase the entire crop at $1.05. Last year about 500 cars of spuds were shipped from this point, the price averaging 52c. It is estimated tonight that potatoes will be selling in carload lots at $1.25 before Wednesday night. A general crop shortage has caused the rapid raise.

A Cleveland society woman gave a party of nine friends of her young son, aged six. To add to the pleasure of the occasion she had the ice frozen in the form of a hen and ten chickens. Each child was allowed to select his chicken as it was served. Finally she came to the son of a prominent politician.
"Which chicken will you have, Bertie?" she asked.
"If you please, Mrs. H., I think I'll take the mamma hen," was the polite reply.—Lippincott's.
An untoward incident, as such things go in world diplomacy, caused considerable amusement at the banquet given in New York last week to General Kurokin, Japan's great military hero. George Dewey, admiral of the American navy, was one of the most distinguished guests present. His seatmate was Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador to Washington. The ambassador became so enthusiastic while cheering the sentiments of one of the orators of the occasion that he had the misfortune to upset a glass of water full into the lap of the hero of Manila.
Sir, I beg your pardon," cried the diplomat, greatly perturbed.
"O beg of you," replied the admiral, "not to be distressed," the other gathering up the skirts of his coat and shaking out the water. "Naturally, I am more used to salt water," added Admiral Dewey, smiling merrily at his own little joke, the better to show his proper understanding of the way in which to preserve the niceties of the international comity, "but don't let this annoy you at all."
"I assure you that I am very sorry," indeed, insisted the mikado's representative.
"Then I assure you," declared Admiral Dewey, "that I feel sorrier for you than for myself."—Washington Herald.
Once, while Bishop Talbot, long known as the "cowboy bishop," was attending a meeting of dignitaries of the church of St. Paul, a tramp approached at group of bishops gathered on the hotel porch at noon and asked for aid. "No," one of the churchmen replied, "I don't think we can do anything, but down there is the youngest bishop of us all (pointing to Bishop Talbot) and he is a very generous man." The tramp went to Bishop Talbot and the others watched with interest. They saw a look of surprise come over the tramp's face—they saw that the 'bishop' was talking eagerly, earnestly—they finally saw something pass from hand to hand. The tramp tried to get away without speaking to those of the group, but the former spokesman called to him: "Well did you get something from our young brother?" The tramp grinned sheepishly. "No; I gave him a dollar for his blamed new cathedral at Laramie."—The Bellman.
"Even with flattery," said Mark Twain at a dinner, "you can't please some men. I remember when I was a reporter in Virginia City there was a doctor I liked—I had camped once on Lake Tahoe with him—and in an obituary I decided to give him a card. I wrote: 'Dr. Sawyer was called in, and under his prompt and skillful treatment the patient died Monday.' But Dr. Sawyer, somehow wasn't pleased."—Kansas City Star.
The man who applied at headquarters for a little help from the charitable association set forth his case with so much tact and moderation that the secretary was beginning to be impressed. "I can't ask them to do too much," the applicant said modestly. "You see," he continued, in an outburst of delicacy and ingenuousness, "They paid for my wedding last month, and 'twas a real swell one."—Argonaut.

Mrs. Hiram Glass of Texarkana and Mrs. William Miller of Tishomingo departed this morning after a brief visit with the family of A. M. Gregg. These ladies and Mrs. T. L. Prather, who is the mother of Mr. Gregg, were most welcome callers at The News office. Like The News editors they were reared in old Mt. Vernon, Texas, and it was like greeting kinspeople.

Street Fair Tonight.

Everything is in readiness and Andrew's Amusement Company will open the big street fair tonight at 8 o'clock.

The attractions occupy Broadway from Main street a block and a half north. There are six main attractions and the usual number smaller ones and vendor's booths. Ada people will probably be out en masse tonight to see the sights and experience the delights.

NOTICE TO DAILY SUBSCRIBERS.

Subscribers to the Evening News will take notice of the following change: Instead of delivering and collecting for The News, the carrier boys now buy their papers outright and carry delinquent subscribers at their own risk. Each boy sells his papers at ten cents a week and collects for himself. Those subscribers who prefer to pay at the office of course may continue to do so. However, The News management still maintains a supervision over the carriers and will exact from them courteous treatment and prompt service for patrons. The latter are requested to report to the manager any negligence on the part of the boys. It is desired that every family in Ada read The News and that it be delivered with the utmost promptness and regularity.

Everybody is requested to bring their Oliver song books to the Methodist church tonight.

Word came from Oklahoma City this morning that Gilbert Reed was some better.

New Indian Commissioner.
Oyster Bay, New York, June 24.—President Roosevelt has appointed Michael E. Don't Be Suspicious.

"A trust conference—any kind of a conference for that matter—is a good thing," said Governor Sheldon of Nebraska, "if it is conducted fairly. To be unfair, to be prejudiced, to be suspicious man falls into error and makes a fool himself. There was a very suspicious countryman who went to New York to see the sights. Coming to the Metropolitan Museum, he was amazed to find the admission to this splendid building cost nothing. He mounted the steps and entered. 'Your umbrella, sir,' said a uniformed official, extending his hand. The countryman jerked back his umbrella, laughed scornfully, and turned on his heel. 'I knowed there was some cheat about it when you got in free,' he said."

A deaf old man dined with a family where grace was always said. Says Lippincott's. When the guests were seated the host bowed his head and began to repeat the accustomed verse in a subdued, reverent tone. "Eh? What's that?" demanded the deaf gentleman who sat beside him. The host smiled patiently and began again in a louder, more deprecatory voice. "Speak a little louder, I don't catch what you say," the old gentleman persisted. A low ripple of laughter went round the table. The host, his face crimson with embarrassment, raised his voice and repeated the verse. The deaf old gentleman did his best to hear, but failed. He placed one hand upon his host's arm "What did you say?" he demanded frantically. The host cast him an angry glance. "Damn it, I'm saying grace," he snapped.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure by local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. ### IN THE NATURE OF PICKUP

Woman Wanted the Express Charges Saved to Store.

A young woman entered a store in Washington and bought a smoking jacket. "Of course you will pay the express charges on this for me?" she said, with a winning smile.

"Certainly, madam," replied the clerk. "We will pay express anywhere within 100 miles."

"What will the express charge be to Blankville, W. Va.?" she asked.

"Never mind how much it will be," said the clerk. "Whatever it may be, the amount will be paid."

"But I want to know the cost," she persisted.

"I would have to phone the express company to get it. Why are you so anxious?"

"Because I am going to Blankville, and I will carry the package out there myself and deliver it. I want you to deduct from the price of it the amount you would have to pay the express company." And then with the sweetest of smiles she added, "Remember the saying of the good old woman, 'Let nothing go to waste.'"

Why Salters Would in the Future Stick to His Seat.

"That's the last time—the very last time," wailed Salters, as he slammed his hat on the deck and gave other indications of mental anguish.

"Last time for what? Got another tip on a good thing?" queried the bookkeeper, with languid interest.

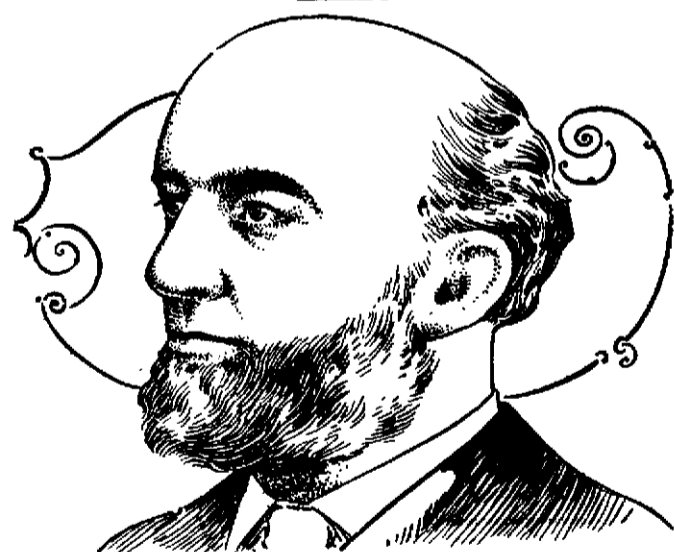

"No, sir. It's the last time I'll ever give up my seat on a car to a woman," replied Salters, with increasing warmth.

"I was lucky enough to get a seat in the subway express this morning," he continued, "and was comfortably reading my paper, when a young woman got on at One Hundred and Sixteenth street. I was sitting in a cross seat when I caught sight of her. She looked tired and delicate, and seeing nobody else make a motion to get up, I arose, made my best bow and waved my hand toward the vacant place. She bowed stiffly and said, 'No, thank you. I never could ride backward.' Before I could sit down again a big husky fellow, who had heard her, dropped into the place with a grunt of satisfaction. I had to stand all the way down town. Never again, I tell you."—N. Y. Press.

met by robbers, who took the money and started away. He called after them that the money was a subscription to the fund for the raising of the debt, whereupon they came back and handed him the money and begged his pardon for their mistake, and then gave him ten yen extra as a contribution on their own part. He asked their names to publish in the papers, but they said they did not want to obtain notoriety in that way, and declined, but said they were glad to pay something toward helping the country.—Korean News.

Origin of Slang Phrase.

James Baker of the Royal Geographical society gives this little story of a Greek saint: "Our good St. Blasius that gave us the phrase 'drunk as Blasius' for this saint was pleasantly done to death by having his flesh torn off by wool combs, and so he became the patron of the English wool combers, and as a high feast was kept up on his day, and the people who frequented the feast were called Blasiers, so the saying grew into the English tongue and remains there fixed and useful."

A posthumous son of Alfonso XII, who died in November, 1885, was born in May of the following year and was immediately proclaimed king under the regency of his mother, who was an imperial princess of the house of Austria. He was the third child of his parents, the two infants, Mercedes and Marie-Therese, having been born in 1880 and 1882, respectively. The full title of Alfonso XIII, is Leon-Ferdinand-Marie-Jacques-Isidore-Pascal-Antoine, King of Spain, of Castile, of Leon d'Aragon, of the two Sicilies, of Jerusalem, Minorca and Majorca, of Seville, Valencia, Galicia, of Cordova, Gibraltar, of the Canary Islands, and of the East and West Indies, besides which he bears numerous ducal and archducal titles.—Harper's Bazar.

A Revision.

"After all," said the dyspeptic philosopher, "what a man is depends largely on what a man eats and how he digests it. The cook is the most responsible factor in our civilization." "Quite true," answered Miss Cayenne. "The old song should be changed from 'Hail to the Chief,' to 'Hail to the Chef.'"

amination, and all from boys under "The love affairs of the very young men of Kansas City must be in a deuce of a state," said Lieut. Roger O. Mason, recruiting officer. "To-day we have had 12 applications for enlistment, eight passing the physical examination who could not get the consent of their parents to join the army. That indicates that 12 young men who had tiffs with their sweethearts now are looking for lives of adventure and danger to make them forget their troubles, and incidentally to make the young women feel sorry when they see the brave heroes they have scorned marching jauntily, clad in blue uniforms and brass buttons, while all the girls look on lost in admiration."

"Experience has shown that the main reason young men of good families find for wishing to enlist in the army is because of affairs of the heart which have turned out badly. Occasionally a wish for what he believes will be a career full of excitement or a boy's natural wish to be a soldier makes the young men who are under age enlist, but usually it is the heartache."—Kansas City Journal.

The Great Heron Must Go.

The great heron is not the only one of that family to subsist on a fish diet, but out of over a dozen species it is the largest and most gluttonous of its kind, and without a single redeeming quality, except, perhaps, the laughable and grotesque manner it swallows a fish. ## DODGED A PEACE OFFERING.

Pugnacious Man Refused to Accept the Loving Cup.

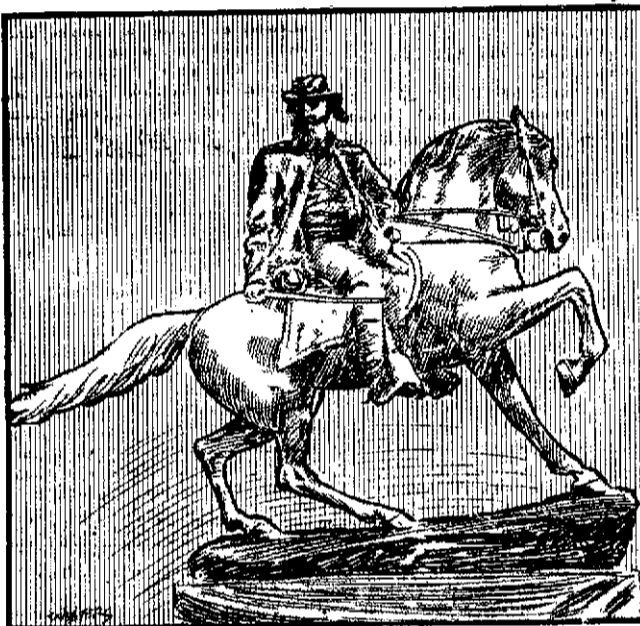

"We are in a peculiar predicament," said the man about town. "By 'we' I mean the members of a club that meets once a month for dinner, just to promote good fellowship. Our president, who founded the club, is sort of a crank. He's a good fellow, in a way, but wants to run things to suit himself and sometimes we have trouble with him. Not long ago we had a row that nearly disrupted the club. We all thought he was to blame and told him so; but after a while the outburst died down and then we thought we'd like to show him there was no permanent hard feeling, so we decided to give him a loving cup, as he is a valuable man to all of us."

"By an accident he heard of the secret and at once wrote us that no man or men on earth could give him a loving cup—that he wouldn't accept one, least of all from us, after the scrap we just had. We all went to him or wrote to him urging him to let the presentation take place, but he steadily refused. Then we told him he'd have to accept it; that it was all ready and it would break up the club if he didn't take it. He said he was willing to resign, but have a loving cup he would not; that if we attempted to present it to him he not only would leave the club, but cut every one of us off his list of acquaintances. He won out. We can't afford to lose him, so we are trying to cancel the order for the cup."

FINE STATUE OF GEN. J. E. B. STUART

On May 30 an equestrian statue of the Confederate cavalry leader General J. E. B. Stuart was unveiled at Richmond, Va., with appropriate ceremonies. General Stuart was the commander of the cavalry corps of the Confederate army of northern Virginia when he was mortally wounded at Yellow Tavern on May 11, 1864, at the age of 31.

Stuart was one of the Confederate officers who had their training at West Point. He served in the United States army in the west for several years before the Civil war broke out, and when his native state, Virginia, cast its lot with the southern cause he resigned and entered the Confederate army.

Where Camel Got Hump.

Did the camel develop his hump because of countless generations of burden-carrying in the deserts? Some scientists say so. The thoroughbred mehari, or saddle camel, of central Algeria, which carries no burden heavier than a slim Arab dispatch bearer, is losing its hump. Prof. Lombroso, the Italian anthropologist, has identified similar callosities—miniature humps—upon the neck and shoulders of Hottentot and Malagasy porters employed in work more appropriate to the camel.

PUSHBALL NEW ATHLETIC PASTIME

The ingenuity of the deviser of athletic sports has produced a new game in which the pushball, which was invented some ten years ago, and introduced as an amusing pastime, is put to a novel use. The game is equine pushball, for want of a better name, and is being played extensively in the west, especially upon the Pacific coast. It is played with the regulation pushball, the huge, inflated sphere some eight or nine feet in diameter, but the maneuvering of the ball is confined strictly to the horses which the participants in the game ride.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

A PICTURESQUE MAN

John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who has been indicted on seven counts for forgery in the third degree and three for perjury, is the most picturesque figure in the insurance game. He is long-haired, gray and swarthy. The indictments grew out of certain "year-end" transactions in which the annual statements to the state insurance department are said to have been "doctored."

Hegeman is a striking personality, both physically and intellectually. In facial contour he bears a strong resemblance, some think, to the late Edwin Booth. His hair is worn in long ringlets which flow over his shoulders and this part of his adornment is his particular pride. The curling locks now streaked with gray are cared for as carefully as the hair of any woman, and when he sits in the sunlight his head appears to be covered with a mass of floss silk. His face is smooth shaven and the cameo-like features are accentuated by a pair of clear, gray eyes that light up wonderfully when his favorite topic—life insurance—is under discussion.

Mr. Hegeman has a remarkable memory for every detail connected with insurance statistics and without reference to books or memoranda can talk for hours on the subject, going into facts and figures with a ready accuracy and sustaining any contention he may make as to statistics with marvelous force. As a controversialist on the principals of the business in which he is engaged he has few peers.

He usually wears an old-fashioned stock and a standing collar, a long frock coat of dark material and light-colored trousers. In general appearance he has been described by one of his biographers as "a composite picture of Benjamin Franklin and Booth the actor."

His entire life since boyhood has been devoted to figures and to statistical work. He was born in New York in April, 1844, and when he was 22 years old he became the accountant of the Manhattan Life Insurance company where he first displayed those faculties which subsequently elevated him to a position at a salary of $100,000 a year. He left the Manhattan company to become the secretary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and in that capacity his zeal and his unflagging energy increased the business of the company to such an extent that the directors voted to make him the vice president. He continued as vice president of the company until October, 1891, when he was elected president.

PLANS HAVEN FOR HOBOES

Dr. Ben L. Reitman, organizer of the Brotherhood Welfare association, an institution designed to uplift the "Weary Willie" band more commonly known as tramps, who recently gave an elaborate banquet at a prominent Chicago hotel to a typical gathering of "knights of the road," has aroused reformers and others by his unique plan and many are already becoming interested in his scheme.

Dr. Reitman was born in St. Paul January 1, 1878, and when 12 years old he ran away from home and took up the "Weary Willie" profession. For five years he remained at home and went to school or worked for a period of seven months out of the year and the balance of the time he put in tramping about the nation. At the age of 17 he became fireman on a tramp steamer out of Tampa, Fla., to Europe and sailed around the world several times as first, second and third class and steerage passenger, as sailor, fireman, cook, steward, ship doctor and stowaway. He also has traveled throughout different countries in the guise of tourist, companion, beggar, tramp and investigator. After obtaining knowledge of the world and the various modes of living by its inhabitants Dr. Reitman decided to take up the cause of the tramp and is now devoting his time to the uplifting of this well-known element.

HEAD OF NATIONAL W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union and vice president of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, has, by means of her talents, applied to a lifelong and unflagging fight against the curse of intoxicating drink, achieved not only national but international fame. Than Mrs. Stevens few of our Americans are more in the public eye to-day.

But her home life and surroundings at Portland, Me., few save her most intimate friends, know of. The Stevens homestead is in Stroudwater, a historic suburb of the charming City by the Sea which the poet Longfellow sang of. The house is of the old Colonial style, severe in its design, but conveying an unmistakable air of gentility and comfort. It is over a century old and was built for Mrs. Stevens' husband's father, who brought his bride there.

It has always been the noted occupant's aim to preserve the old-fashioned air which characterizes the residence. Nothing modern finds a place within its four walls. While electricity is available for lighting purposes kerosene lamps are the sole illuminant.

The rooms are all large and square. Some years ago Mrs. Stevens converted what was originally the kitchen into her study. Chosen for its southern exposure and for the inspiring view obtainable from its windows it is an ideal working den. Two and sometimes three stenographers are employed receiving dictation, writing out reports, addresses, etc., for the daily mail which must be attended to is a matter of no inconsiderable magnitude.

While explaining some of the interesting features of her study Mrs. Stevens placed for me a chair which she stated was over 100 years old. In front of me was an immense fireplace which takes a four-foot log, the length of the cut in the woods. Flanking the fireplace is one of those old-fashioned brick ovens of our grandmother's days where many a steaming hot meal has been prepared for the earlier occupants of the house.

LEADS WAR ON WHITE PLAGUE

Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago, president of the Illinois state board of charities and a noted physician, has been elected president of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. This organization of doctors, which has already done important work toward the stamping out of the white plague, has just held a largely attended convention in Washington. After the death of the late Marshall Field Dr. Billings sent in the following bill:

"To services rendered from January 10 to January 17, day and night attendance, time of journey to and from New York—$25,000."

This fee, one of the largest ever paid an American doctor, was allowed without question.

Dr. Billings is noted as a diagnostician. He is a member of most of the technical societies of the medical profession and is consulting physician in many of the Chicago hospitals. In 1903-4 Dr. Billings was president of the American Medical association, and he also has been president of the Chicago Medical society. He is 53 years old and was graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1881.

Dr. Billings attracted much attention last fall by advocating state regulation of marriage. In a widely-quoted speech he said:

"I do not believe there should be such freedom of marriage. I am no lawyer, but I would like to see society put on its statute books a law forbidding two people to be married, not merely until they had secured a certificate of health from a physician, but until they had obtained a certificate of inheritance showing their antecedents."

"This sounds drastic, but the increase in the defective classes is so impressive as to warrant such a conclusion. Two per cent. of the population of Illinois is insane. The number of defectives is increasing three per cent. annually."

PERISHED IN BURNING HOTEL

Midland House at Roff Destroyed--
One Guest Incinerated

The Midland Hotel at Roff was destroyed by fire about 2:30 Monday morning. So rapidly did the flames spread that a number of guests narrowly escaped, clad in their night clothes, several of them slightly burned.

One guest, who had arrived from Missouri just three hours before on a late train, presumably sleeping very soundly, was burned up. From his valise and other belongings recovered it was discovered the unfortunate man was J. D. Cole, who was on the way to visit relatives at Trout's ranch near Roff. His relatives have been notified of the tragedy.

The building was the property of Mrs. Bettie Hawkins who conducted the hotel. The loss is said to be fully covered by $2,000 worth of insurance.

It is not thought possible the fire could have been started from the range at that time of the night. Under the circumstances incendiarism is strongly suspected.

Roff's fire company did heroic work in rescuing furniture from the flaming building and in preventing the further spread of the fire.

WANT CENSUS OF OKLAHOMA

President's Demand Regarded as
Inimical to Statehood

Washington, June 25—Upon the advice of attorney general, the president has instructed the Secretary of Commerce and labor to have the census bureau make a special enumeration of the inhabitants of the proposed state of Oklahoma, including both the present Territory of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, to determine the population of the proposed new state and its distribution among the several territorial subdivisions into which the state will be divided should the constitution confirmed by the convention lately sitting there be approved by the polls.

The latter clause is regarded as of especial significance, as it is simply another way of saying that the purpose of the census is to discover whether the population is fairly divided among the five congressional districts in which the proposed state is to be divided. Democrats and the few republicans who are friendly to statehood for these territories look upon the order for an enumeration as but a continuation of the fight against the admission of the new state.

EAGER FOR THE DECISION

Gathered at Guthrie to Learn Fate
of the Constitution

Guthrie, Okla., June 25—Attorneys are gathering here to receive the decision of the Oklahoma Supreme Court on the cases affecting the submission of the constitution to the people, which is to be handed down this afternoon. The cases were submitted by argument June 12, the primary cause being that of Woods county, in which the inferior court held among other things that the constitutional convention had no power to divide counties as provided for election of county officers, and was taken on appeal by the convention's attorneys. Linked with the Woods county case were submitted those from Greer and Day counties, embracing practically every point complained of in the litigation concerning the scope of the convention's powers.

Attorneys for the Woods county plaintiffs who heretofore figured on an appeal in event the decision was adverse, may abandon that course and take their chances of opposing the county division through an appeal from the state courts. To appeal from the Territorial Supreme Court, a financial damage must be involved. It is estimated that in event of the court's decree permitting an election to be held, the constitutional convention will be immediately reassembled and a new election date set, and as soon as the legal barriers allow, Gov. Frantz will issue the proclamation. He declared today that the people should have an opportunity to vote upon the constitution at the earliest possible time.

AFTER OKLAHOMA CENTRAL

Rumored that Gould Interests Will Invade New State.

Guthrie, Okla. —That the Gould interests are going to get busy in Oklahoma railroad circles is indicated by the semi-official announcement that they have secured control of the Oklahoma Central, an independent line now in operation from Lehigh to Purcell and under construction from Purcell to Chickasha. The road gives a western outlet from the coal fields of the Choctaw Nation and for practically its entire length traverses a country which has been entirely uncultivated by railroads. It crosses several north and south lines but is the only east and west road in the two territories, with the one exception of the Choctaw, now owned by the Rock Island.

The Gould interests now have but one line in either territory, the Iron Mountain, running from Coffeyville, Kan., to Ft. Smith. Rumors have been afloat for several years that they intended invading the Oklahoma field, and it has been commonly talked that the proposed line from Caney, Kan., southwest through Pawhuska to Guthrie was a Missouri Pacific proposition, but that line, at least as far as any Missouri Pacific connections are concerned, now seems to have fallen through entirely.

AFTER INDIAN HEIRESESSES

Girls Want "Scientific Husbands"—Many Suitors Come.

Sulphur, I. T., June 24.—Sulphur and the Platt National Park are taking on the airs of a military reservation. Agricultural and mechanical college cadets are arriving in great numbers dressed in gay college uniforms. These spry cadets have for several weeks been carrying on an impassioned correspondence with Misses Arrow Littleheart and Lizzie Littlefoot and a great many other Chickasaw belles who have banded together for the purpose of securing scientifically educated young white men for husbands. This band of pretty and practical Indian maids sent out about two months ago to the presidents of all the A. and M. Colleges of the United States letters describing their valuable allotments. They explained that their brothers were fine fellows but were not good for business. Said the Indian boys needed white girls trained to business for squaws. As for themselves, they needed and were determined to have only young white men for husbands who had been taught to farm practically and scientifically in the agricultural colleges. These proud aborigine maids are deeming that their white husbands have military bearing—that they must be finished product physically as mentally. All the presidents but one read the letters to their student body. At all the schools great enthusiasm was created. The president of the A. & M. college of the state of Michigan turned down the request of these proud Indian maids—refused to frame their letters and hang them in a prominent place in that state's agricultural college where his cadets could see them and read of unusual opportunities down in the Chickasaw Nation. Wrote the maids that he was afraid his cadets would correspond with them over fictitious names and only for amusement. The cadets arriving from other colleges seem to mean business. They are evidently very much in earnest.

John D. Doesn't Own It All.
Push-me-ta-ha, former chief of the Osages, is said to be the richest Indian in the world. His wealth is estimated at $2,000,000, and that of his entire family $10,000,000, the result of the discovery of oil and gas on their lands. The old chief's monthly income from oil and gas royalties alone is $30,000.

OKLAHOMA NOTES.
(From Kansas City Journal.)

Red Man's Comment.
A Choctaw Indian, commenting on the democratic campaign recently said, "White man when he run for office, farmer all the time, when he get elected heap much politician, ride in big devil wagon, run over farmer's pigs."

Chance for Schoolmarms.
Last year the government established 200 new schools in the Chickasaw Nation. This year supervisor Umboltz will establish 100 more schools there. Since there are only 175 federal teachers in this nation there is a chance for 125 Kansas and Texas school marms at salaries ranging from $40 to $80 a month.

Haskell and Dunne.
The question is being asked in Oklahoma, what has Jesse Dunne done to anger C. N. Haskell. The answer is, Jesse Dunne wrote a letter stating that Haskell refused to contribute to the democratic campaign fund, whereas Haskell claims he did contribute a good round roll, but not at the time Jesse Dunne him for it.

is not clear. He is possibly trying to counteract the effects of the hot weather in Oklahoma, or possibly he would divert attention from the boiling condition of the democratic pot of harmony.

"Catches 'Em Alive."

The woman who hears the wild cat in his den lives near Geary, according to the Geary Bulletin. "An Oklahoma woman has no fear of wild cats. Mrs. Dollie Carter who lives in Devil's Canyon, a few miles west of here, is getting quite a reputation as an enemy to the wild cat tribe. Last Friday she found the lair of a bobcat with three kittens. She drove off the mother cat and captured the kittens. Last winter Mrs. Carter killed a monster bobcat in the same canyon, after a hard fight in which she received many scratches from the beast."

Hurd to Interview.

The hardest assignment that can be given a newspaper man is to interview a bunch of full blood Indians. The Tonkawa Chieftain reporter tried to interview some Tonkawa Indians Wednesday, but was thwarted by their habitual taciturnity. He ascertained, however, that nothing more exciting than a dog fight had taken place in the reservation since the death of Irwin Topsy by drowning. "They are planning," he says, "for a midsummer trek that will include a visit with the Poncas, followed with its customary exchange of ponies. The social season has not been particularly brilliant the past winter; what functions had taken place were not eligible to an inquisitive newsmonger. They did not seem to take much interest in the approaching election, but, like our friend, Mr. McCarty, are in favor of the initiative and referendum and imperial mandate, because it sounds good."

Indian Rhymster.

Alex Posey, of Muskogee, the Creek bard, writing under his favorite non de plume, Fus Fixico, refutes the old saying that nothing will rhyme with Arkansas, in the following verse published in the Muskogee Times—

No rhyme for Arkansas?
Or Wichita,
Or Washita,
Or Spavinaw,
Or Mackinaw,

ANOTHER FOR PROHIBITION.

The state wide prohibition cause is fast gaining ground and its support is rapidly solidifying for the coming campaign. The Oklahoma Democrat published at Altus comes out emphatically for prohibition in the following unanswerable words:

There is no doubt in our mind that the prohibition clause of the constitution of the new state of Oklahoma will be and should be adopted in the coming election.

Why should a business that consumes and never produces be allowed to exist?

The theory that it takes a saloon to make a good town has long since been exploded. The theory now is that it takes a good town to support the saloon. Just reason a minute and let us know your conclusion.

Who supports the saloon? Is it the rich man or man of moderate means or the man who depends upon his daily earnings to provide the necessities of life for his family?

Let us have your answer.

The saloon pays a revenue to the city. Where does the revenue come from?

Would it not be better for all parties concerned to have this revenue come through the hands of the butcher the baker the grocer the coal dealer the druggist the man and other necessary channels of trade than through the hands of a business which deals death and destruction to its deluded victims?

Yes. The Democrat stands for prohibition. It declares its own policy and stands ready to defend its position.

THE Eruption Coming.

Under the caption "A word of warning to the Oklahoma Leaders," the Tulsa World one of the leading Republican papers of the new state prints the following:

The long threatened revolt against the dictatorial and suicidal policy of state central committee of the Republican party of Oklahoma has come to pass. For months such action has been gaining in strength and the inclination of the committee to take the power of government from the hands of the people has aided in popularity of the movement. The desire of the people for home government everywhere apparent should have acted as a warning to the politicians and for self protection if for no higher motive they should have considered well the demands of the rank and file. No association of men is greater than its constituency and the attempt made by selfish interests to curtail the rights of liberty loving Oklahomans by shoddy superfluities could have but one end future. The people want self government. The people who have caused all this unnecessary delay and embarrassment in reorganizing statehood can hold no resentment against the people if they find themselves personally injured in the party councils here forth. The World has consistently favored and shall continue to favor the statehood and has unceasingly argued that the only feasible path to immediate statehood was by the adoption of the constitution. It is gratifying to the World to note that the prominent leaders among the people of the republican party have worked to this fact. The World has exhausted every effort to convince the state committee that the defeat of the constitution spelled political ruin to the party and commercial ruin to the Indian Territory but against all reason the state committee was led by Oklahoma interests to declare against the constitution. In the face of the fact that an apparent unanimity of the state committee desired at least delay the World has remained quiet on the subject of statehood never however losing its enthusiasm in that respect. The World has perhaps fidgetted and fumed to itself when the Oklahoma leaders committed some particularly inconceivable blunder but in the interests of harmony it has bided its time.

Now that definite action has been taken by men representative of the people the World feels no longer under obligations to the state committee. In the event its policy is not radically changed and unless it shows at once by clear and unmistakable effort a sincere indication of quick work for statehood the World will say God speed to the rump convention and will devote its influence heart and soul to the movement. And the World believes that that rump convention will be so representative of the business interests the common toilers and the vote free broadminded uncontrolled masses of the republican party that a regular convention called at the instance of the leaders in Oklahoma will be a physical impossibility.

It is up to the leaders. The voice of the new state citizenship has been heard. The leaders must obey or perish.

It is evident from the foregoing that not all the republicans in the new state can be depended on to aid the interests seeking to defeat the constitution and statehood. At least there is one republican paper which places the welfare of its state above party long enough to declare warfare upon the effort on the part of the republican leaders to keep Oklahoma hogtied longer in order that the necessity of going to work may be obviated among the carpet baggers.

And the end is not yet. The rank and file has never had a say. When they get one if it ever pleases the courts it need not be surprising if something pops in a thunderous and ominous way.—Oklahomaian

Potatoes Going High.
Shawnee Okla. June 24.—Unusual activity marked the potato market today. The prices soaring as high as $1.00 per bushel breaking all records in Oklahoma. Fifteen buyers are on the local market representing commission companies at all Northern cities. Excitement was caused today by the rumor that St. Louis had wired to purchase the entire crop at $1.00. Last year about 500 cars of spuds were shipped from this point the price averaging 50c. It is estimated tonight that potatoes will be selling in car load lots at $1.00 before Wednesday night. A general crop shortage has caused the rapid raise.

An untoward incident as such things go in world diplomacy caused considerable amusement at the banquet given in New York last week to General Kuroki Japan's great military hero. (George Dewey admiral of the American navy) was one of the most distinguished guests present. His seatmate was Viscount Aoki the Japanese ambassador to Washington. The ambassador became so enthusiastic while checking the sentiments of one of the orators of the occasion that he had the misfortune to upset a glass of water full into the lap of the hero of Manila.

St. I beg your pardon cried the diplomat greatly perturbed.

I am of you replied the admiral not to be distressed the other gentleman up the skirts of his coat and shaking out the water. Naturally I am not used to salt water. Added Admiral Dewey smiling merrily at his own little joke the better to show his perfect understanding of the way in which to preserve the niceties of the international comity. But don't let this annoy you at all.

I assure you that I am very sorry indeed insisted the mikado's representative.

Then I assure you declared Admiral Dewey that I feel sorrier for you than for myself.—Washington Herald

Once while Bishop Talbot long known as the cowboy bishop was attending a meeting of dignitaries of the church of St. Paul a tramp approached a group of bishops gathered on the hotel porch at noon and asked for aid.

No one of the churchmen replied. I don't think we can do anything but down there is the youngest bishop of us all (pointing to Bishop Talbot) and he is a very generous man. The tramp went to Bishop Talbot and the others watched with interest. They saw a look of surprise come over the tramp's face—they saw that the bishop was talking eagerly earnestly—they finally saw something pass from hand to hand. The tramp tried to get away without speaking to those of the group but the former spokesman called to him.

Well did you get something from our young brother? The tramp grinned sheepishly. No I gave him a dollar for his blamed new cathedral at Laramie.—The Bellman

Street Fair Tonight.

Everything is in readiness and Andrew's Amusement Company will open the big street fair tonight at 8 o'clock.

The attractions occupy Broadway from Main street a block and a half north. There are six main attractions and the usual number smaller ones and vendor's booths. Ada people will probably be out en masse tonight to see the sights and experience the delights.

NOTICE TO DAILY SUBSCRIBERS.

Subscribers to the Evening News will take notice of the following change: Instead of delivering and collecting for The News, the carrier boys now buy their papers outright and carry delinquent subscribers at their own risk. Each boy sells his papers at ten cents a week and collects for himself. Those subscribers who prefer to pay at the office of course may continue to do so. However, The News management still maintains a supervision over the carriers and will exact from them courteous treatment and prompt service for patrons. The latter are requested to report to the manager any negligence on the part of the boys. It is desired that every family in Ada read The News and that it be delivered with the utmost promptness and regularity.

Everybody is requested to bring their Oliver song books to the Methodist church tonight.

Word came from Oklahoma City this morning that Gilbert Reed was some better.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

(Athens (Kan.) Globe)

A boy never expects a girl's dog to have much sense.

Nine men out of ten see into lose their grip for awhile as soon as they marry.

A kiss on the cheek is like many "just as good." It isn't.

If the present rate keeps up, all the men will be lawyers, and all the women stenographers.

When there is company in the house, members of the family begin to say "good morning" to each other when they come to breakfast.

The town man is always figuring on returning to the farm, while the farmer expects to spend his reeling years in town.

A woman may loaf around town a good deal, but she differs from a man loafer by disguising it under the head of "shopping."

You are never apt to have to pass an examination in which an intimate knowledge of the various brands of whiskey will help you.

Ham's Horn Brown's Philosophy. The good we ought to do will never be done unless we do it.

The devil may sometimes get a new hook and line, but he keeps on fishing with the same old bait.

The man who prays to be nothing, generally is.

The Lord can work with dull tools, but he doesn't like to do it any better than we do.

Until fire touches gunpowder, it is as well behaved as sweet milk.

It is hard to find a man who will stand up like a man and take the blame for his own wrong doing.

The usual semi-annual, bankrupt sale was about to take place in a certain clothing "emporium" and a huge wooden hill board covered with advertisements announcing the fact, was erected just outside the windows.

"But," objected the new clerk, "won't those boards shut out all the light?"

"Sh!" returned the proprietor. "What do you suppose I put em up for?"—Lippincott's.

Erasmus, in his curious essay "On Behavior at Meals," remarks that its very rude to wipe one's fingers on one's neighbor's coat. He also advises the guests "not to give dogs your bones to crack under the table, or feed the cat or encourage animals to jump on the table. This may offend your host or lead to the soiling of his carpet." An admonition that well might well be observed in the present day.

"Above all," he says, "do not lick your plate; it is an act that ill becomes a cat, let alone a gentleman."—Kansas City Star.

The doctor had just returned to his house after spending two hours with a very critical case.

"How did it go, dear?" asked his young wife who had been a charming young widow two years before.

"Pulled him through, but it was a stiff job."

"How clever you are, Ned," remarked the admiring spouse. "If I had only known you four years ago, I feel certain poor Tom (her former husband) would have been saved."—New York Telegraph.

New Indian Commissioner. Oyster Bay, New York, June 21.—President Roosevelt has appointed (Michael) E. No emolument is attached to the position, the board's duties being to direct philanthropic work among the Indians.

Don't Be Suspicious. "A trust conference—any kind of a conference for that matter—is a good thing," said Governor Sheldon of Nebraska, "if it is conducted fairly. To be unfair, to be prejudiced, to be suspicious man falls into error and makes a fool himself. There was a very suspicious countryman who went to New York to see the sights. Coming to the Metropolitan Museum, he was amazed to find the admission to this splendid building cost nothing. He mounted the steps and entered. 'Your umbrella, sir,' said a uniformed official, extending his hand. The countryman jerked back his umbrella, laughed scornfully, and turned on his heel. 'I knowed there was some cheat about it when you got in free,' he said."

Spoiled the Blessing. A deaf old man dined with a family where grace was always said, says Lippincott's. When the guests were seated the host bowed his head and began to repeat the accustomed verse in a subdued, reverent tone. "Hh? What's that?" demanded the deaf old gentleman who sat beside him. The host smiled patiently and began again in a louder, more deprecatory voice. "Speak a little louder, I don't catch what you say," the old gentleman persisted. A low ripple of laughter went round the table. The host, his face crimson with embarrassment, raised his voice and repeated the verse. The deaf old gentleman did his best to hear, but failed. He placed one hand upon his host's arm. "What did you say?" he demanded frantically. The host cast him an angry glance. "Damn it, I'm saying grace," he snapped.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure by local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proved catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. ### IN THE NATURE OF PICKUP

Woman Wanted the Express Charges Saved to Store.

A young woman entered a store in Washington and bought a smoking jacket. "Of course you will pay the express charges on this for me?" she said, with a winning smile.

"Certainly, madam," replied the clerk. "We will pay express anywhere within 100 miles."

"What will the express charge be to Blankville, W. Va.?" she asked.

"Never mind how much it will be," said the clerk. "Whatever it may be, the amount will be paid."

"But I want to know the cost," she persisted.

"I would have to phone the express company to get it. Why are you so anxious?"

"Because I am going to Blankville and I will carry the package out there myself and deliver it. I want you to deduct from the price of it the amount you would have to pay the express company. And then with the sweetest of smiles, she added, 'Remember the saying of the good old woman, 'Let nothing go to waste.'"

HIS LAST GALLANT ACT.

Why Salters Would in the Future Stick to His Seat.

"That's the last time—the very last time," wailed Salters, as he slammed his hat on the deck and gave other indications of mental anguish.

"Last time for what?" Got another tip on a good thing?" queried the bookkeeper, with languid interest.

"No sir. It's the last time I'll ever give up my seat on a car to a woman," replied Salters, with increasing wrath. "I was lucky enough to get a seat in the subway express this morning," he continued, "and was comfortably reading my paper, when a young woman got on at One Hundred and Sixteenth street. I was sitting in a cross seat when I caught sight of her. She looked tired and delicate, and seeing nobody else make a motion to get up, I arose, made my best bow and waved my hand toward the vacant place. She bowed stiffly and said, 'No, thank you. I never could ride backward.' Before I could sit down again a big husky fellow, who had heard her, dropped into the place with a grunt of satisfaction. I had to stand all the way down town. Never again I tell you!"—N. Y. Press.

JILTED BOYS JOIN ARMY.

Cupid Said to Make Effective Recruiting Officer.

amination, and all from boys under "The love affairs of the very young men of Kansas City must be in a deuce of a state," said Lieut. Roger O. Mason, recruiting officer. "To-day we have had 12 applications for enlistment, eight passing the physical examination, who could not get the consent of their parents to join the army. That indicates that 12 young men who had tiffs with their sweethearts now are looking for lives of adventure and danger to make them forget their troubles, and incidentally to make the young women feel sorry when they see the brave heroes they have scorned marching jauntily, clad in blue uniforms and brass buttons, while all the girls look on lost in admiration."

"Experience has shown that the main reason young men of good families find for wishing to enlist in the army is because of affairs of the heart which have turned out badly. Occasionally a wish for what he believes will be a career full of excitement or a boy's natural wish to be a soldier makes the young men who are under age enlist, but usually it is the heartache."—Kansas City Journal.

The Great Heron Must Go.

The great heron is not the only one of that family to subsist on a fish diet, but out of over a dozen species it is the largest and most gluttonous of its kind, and without a single redeeming quality, except, perhaps, the laughable and grotesque manner it swallows a fish. Louis Read, the artist-sportsman, suggests in Recreation that steps should be taken by followers of

DODGED A PEACE OFFERING.

Pugnacious Man Refused to Accept the Loving Cup.

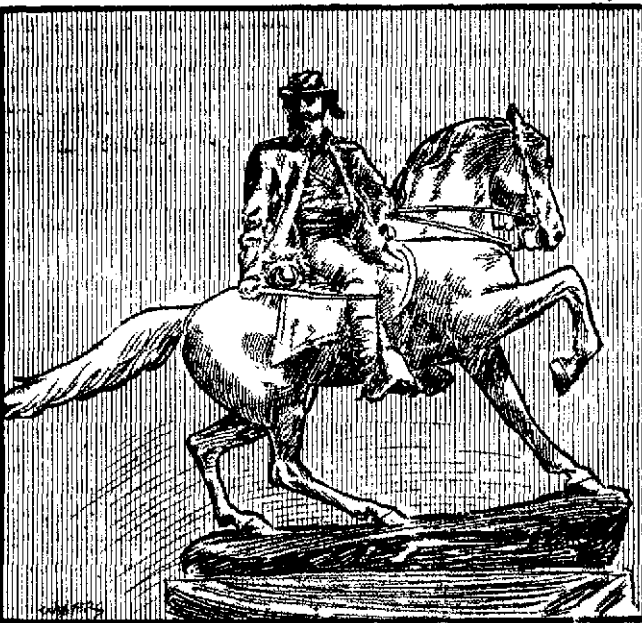

"We are in a peculiar predicament," said the man about town. "By 'we' I mean the members of a club that meets once a month for dinner, just to promote good fellowship. Our president, who founded the club, is sort of a crank. He's a good fellow, in a way, but wants to run things to suit himself and sometimes we have trouble with him. Not long ago we had a row that nearly disrupted the club. We all thought he was to blame and told him so; but after a while the outburst died down and then we thought we'd like to show him there was no permanent hard feeling, so we decided to give him a loving cup, as he is a valuable man to all of us."

"By an accident he heard of the secret and at once wrote us that no man or men on earth could give him a loving cup—that he wouldn't accept one, least of all from us, after the scrap we just had. We all went to him or wrote to him urging him to let the presentation take place, but he steadily refused. Then we told him he'd have to accept it; that it was all ready and it would break up the club if he didn't take it. He said he was willing to resign, but have a loving cup he would not. That if we attempted to present it to him he not only would leave the club, but cut every one of us off his list of acquaintances. He won out. We can't afford to lose him, so we are trying to cancel the order for the cup."

FINE STATUE OF GEN. J. E. B. STUART

On May 30 an equestrian statue of the Confederate cavalry leader General J. E. B. Stuart was unveiled at Richmond, Va., with appropriate ceremonies. General Stuart was the commander of the cavalry corps of the Confederate army of northern Virginia when he was mortally wounded at Yellow Tavern on May 11, 1864, at the age of 31.

Stuart was one of the Confederate officers who had their training at West Point. He served in the United States army in the west for several years before the Civil war broke out and when his native state, Virginia, cast in its lot with the southern cause he resigned and entered the Confederate army.

Where Camel Got Hump.

Did the camel develop his hump because of countless generations of burden-carrying in the deserts? Some scientists say so. The thoroughbred mehar, or saddle camel, of central Algeria, which carries no burden heavier than a slim Arab dispatch bearer, is losing its hump. Prof Lombroso, the Italian anthropologist, has identified similar callosities—miniature humps—upon the neck and shoulders of Hottentot and Malagasy porters employed in work more appropriate to the camel.

PUSHBALL NEW ATHLETIC PASTIME

The ingenuity of the deviser of athletic sports has produced a new game in which the pushball, which was invented some ten years ago, and introduced as an amusing pastime, is put to a novel use. The game is quite pushball, for want of a better name, and is being played extensively in the west, especially upon the Pacific coast. It is played with the regulation pushball, the huge, inflated sphere some eight or nine feet in diameter, but the maneuvering of the ball is confined strictly to the horses which the participants in the game ride.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

A PICTURESQUE MAN

John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who has been indicted on seven counts for forgery in the third degree and three for perjury, is the most picturesque figure in the insurance game. He is long-haired, gray and swarthy. The indictments grew out of certain "year-end" transactions in which the annual statements to the state insurance department are said to have been "doctored."

Hegeman is a striking personality, both physically and intellectually. In facial contour he bears a strong resemblance, some think, to the late Edwin Booth. His hair is worn in long ringlets which flow over his shoulders and this part of his adornment is his particular pride. The curling locks now streaked with gray are cared for as carefully as the hair of any woman, and when he sits in the sunlight his head appears to be covered with a mass of floss silk. His face is smooth shaven and the cameo-like features are accentuated by a pair of clear, gray eyes that light up wonderfully when his favorite topic—life insurance—is under discussion.

Mr. Hegeman has a remarkable memory for every detail connected with insurance statistics and without reference to books or memoranda can talk for hours on the subject, going into facts and figures with a ready accuracy and sustaining any contention he may make as to statistics with marvelous force. As a controversialist on the principals of the business in which he is engaged he has few peers.

He usually wears an old-fashioned stock and a standing collar, a long frock coat of dark material and light-colored trousers. In general appearance he has been described by one of his biographers as "a composite picture of Benjamin Franklin and Booth the actor."

His entire life since boyhood has been devoted to figures and to statistical work. He was born in New York in April, 1844, and when he was 22 years old he became the accountant of the Manhattan Life Insurance company where he first displayed those faculties which subsequently elevated him to a position at a salary of $100,000 a year. He left the Manhattan company to become the secretary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and in that capacity his zeal and his unflagging energy increased the business of the company to such an extent that the directors voted to make him the vice president. He continued as vice president of the company until October, 1891, when he was elected president.

PLANS HAVEN FOR HOBOES

Dr. Ben L. Reitman, organizer of the Brotherhood Welfare association, an institution designed to uplift the "Weary Willie" band more commonly known as tramps, who recently gave an elaborate banquet at a prominent Chicago hotel to a typical gathering of "knights of the road," has aroused reformers and others by his unique plan and many are already becoming interested in his scheme.

Dr. Reitman was born in St. Paul January 1, 1879, and when 12 years old he ran away from home and took up the "Weary Willie" profession. For five years he remained at home and went to school or worked for a period of seven months out of the year and the balance of the time he put in tramping about the nation. At the age of 17 he became a man on a tramp steamer out of Tampa, Fla., to Europe and sailed around the world several times as first, second and third class and steerage passenger, as sailor, fireman, cook, steward, ship doctor and stowaway. He also has traveled throughout different countries in the guise of tourist, companion, beggar, tramp and investigator. After obtaining knowledge of the world and the various modes of living by its inhabitants Dr. Reitman decided to take up the cause of the tramp and is now devoting his time to the uplifting of this well-known element.

HEAD OF NATIONAL W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union and vice president of the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union, has, by means of her talents, applied to a lifelong and unflagging fight against the curse of intoxicating drink, achieved not only national but international fame. Than Mrs. Stevens few of our Americans are more in the public eye to-day.

But her home life and surroundings at Portland, Me., few, save her most intimate friends, know of. The Stevens homestead is in Strouds-water, a historic suburb of the charming City by the Sea which the poet Longfellow sang of. The house is of the old Colonial style, severe in its design, but conveying an unmistakable air of gentility and comfort. It is over a century old and was built for Mrs. Stevens' husband's father, who brought his bride there.

It has always been the noted occupant's aim to preserve the old-fashioned air which characterizes the residence. Nothing modern finds a place within its four walls. While electricity is available for lighting purposes kerosene lamps are the sole illuminant.

The rooms are all large and square. Some years ago Mrs. Stevens converted what was originally the kitchen into her study. Chosen for its southern exposure and for the inspiring view obtainable from its windows it is an ideal working den. Two and sometimes three stenographers are employed receiving dictation, writing out reports, addresses, etc., for the daily mail which must be attended to is a matter of no inconsiderable magnitude.

While explaining some of the interesting features of her study Mrs. Stevens placed for me a chair which she stated was over 100 years old. In front of me was an immense fireplace which takes a four-foot log, the length of the cut in the woods. Flanking the fireplace is one of those old-fashioned brick ovens of our grandmother's days where many a steaming hot meal has been prepared for the earlier occupants of the house.

LEADS WAR ON WHITE PLAGUE

Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago, president of the Illinois state board of charities and a noted physician, has been elected president of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. This organization of doctors, which has already done important work toward the stamping out of the white plague, has just held a largely attended convention in Washington. After the death of the late Marshall Field Dr. Billings sent in the following bill:

"To services rendered from January 10 to January 17, day and night attendance, time of journey to and from New York—$25,000."

This fee, one of the largest ever paid an American doctor, was allowed without question.

Dr. Billings is noted as a diagnostician. He is a member of most of the technical societies of the medical profession and is consulting physician in many of the Chicago hospitals. In 1902 Dr. Billings was president of the American Medical association, and he also has been president of the Chicago Medical society. He is 53 years old and was graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1881.

Dr. Billings attracted much attention last fall by advocating state regulation of marriage. In a widely-quoted speech he said:

"I do not believe there should be such freedom of marriage. I am no lawyer, but I would like to see society put on its statute books a law for bidding two people to be married, not merely until they had secured a certificate of health from a physician, but until they had obtained a certificate of inheritance showing their antecedents."

"This sounds drastic, but the increase in the defective classes is so impressive as to warrant such a conclusion. Two per cent. of the population of Illinois is insane. The number of defectives is increasing three per cent. annually."
